

Module 2 Assignment

For this assignment, you will build a better future value calculator with several dynamic variable inputs. Instead of just asking the user for the investment amount, you should use the input command to ask the user for: investment, interest rate, and periods (years). Then calculate and output the future value with appropriate currency formatting.

Test out your code on several different values to be sure it works.